One purpose of a political organization is to swing the votes of those who cannot think and act for themselves. Do you belong to that class?

R. A. Cooper has antagonized no set, clique, coterie or faction except the law-breakers and no one expects that element to put a good man in the governor's chair.

If the governor has agitated this negro question from a desire to prevent social and political equality in this state, it appears to us that he would either stay here to finish the job or endorse some one of his own thinking to finish it for him.

Senator Smith's call for a conference on the cotton question is certain to be charged against him as a political move. It might be, for nobody knows except the senator himself. Politics or not, we advise the farmers to listen to "Ed" whether they are going to vote for him or not. The cotton situation in the south is serious today, more serious than that of any other industry in the United States.

Gov. Blease is authority for the information that he has an organization which covers the state, that he can tell from his organization exactly how every box will go at the election. It is hardly probable, however, that the organization is an information bureau only. It is expected primarily, we imagine, to solidify the Blease vote and deliver it to whomever the "Chief" might dictate. Will the organization be able to deliver the vote?

Two things may be counted as almost certain to follow a general European war: One is that all kinds of food, both for man and beast, will be high; the other is that cotton will be low. Farmers cannot act too quickly to make provision for such a condition. If there is any kind of food crop which can be planted now with any reasonable chance of producing a harvest, it should be planted without delay. Preparations should also be made to hold the cotton crop off the market as long as possible.

"But Mendel Smith would never command the enthusiastic support of the Anti-Blease people generally." The News and Courier. This seems to us to be sufficient reason why he should not be looked to as the standard bearer of the Anti-Blease forces in the second race. Our leader in the second race must be able to command the full vote, if we read the signs right. There are numbers of Anti-Blease people who will not support M. L. Smith at all.

C. D. Fortner, candidate for railroad commissioner, author of the "Fortner Bill", Simon-pure Bleasite from the word "to", was arrested in Columbia several nights ago for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He forfeited bail in the sum of $5.75, thereby admitting his guilt. Police records of the arrest showed that Candidate Fortner had a commission as state constable in his pocket signed by Gov. Blease. It is reasonable to assume that with the commission from the governor goes a monthly stipend paid from taxes paid by the citizens of South Carolina. It's alright for Candidate Fortner to get drunk and to carouse around if he wants to; it's alright for him to run for office if he wants to on the Blease ticket; it's alright if he goes on every stump in the state and whoops things up for Gov. Blease if he wants to;—but, it's all wrong when the tax payers of South Carolina have to foot the bill.

The shooting was the result of a disagreement over a small sum of money.

DEATH OF MRS. RANKIN.

Mother of Rev. C. F. Rankin Died Thursday at her Home in North Carolina.

Mrs. J. H. Rankin, mother of Rev. C. F. Rankin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, died at her home in Greensboro, N. C., Thursday night. Mr. Rankin was unaware of his mother's serious illness until a telegram reached him here Thursday morning. He left immediately for Greensboro, but did not reach there until after the end had already come. The sympathy of the entire city goes out to him in his great bereavement.

The following account of her death appeared in the Greensboro Daily Record Friday:

Mrs. J. H. Rankin died last night at 11:45 o'clock at her home, 206 Ashe street, after an illness of only about 24 hours. Her death came as a great shock to a host of friends and relatives in the city and county.

Mrs. Rankin was born in Person county in 1843, being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buchanan. Several years before the war Mr. Buchanan moved his family to Guilford, making his home about three miles northeast of Greensboro, on what is now the Brown Summit road.

For thirty years Mrs. Rankin had been a consecrated member of the First Presbyterian church, having moved her membership from the Buffalo Presbyterian church when she came to Greensboro. Her life shone out as a brilliant example of a noble, Christian woman, and her influence for good was widely felt in the community. To know her was to love her and all who came in touch with her became her friends.

Mrs. Rankin was up Wednesday, sewing and going about her household work with her customary cheerfulness, seeming to be in good health and undoubtedly in good spirits. After dinner she complained of a headache. She became worse and was forced to retire. Late in the night her condition became critical and fears for her recovery were felt. All day yesterday she lingered between life and death and at a quarter of twelve o'clock last night, about 24 hours after she had become seriously ill, she passed away.

She was the mother of a large family, seven sons and the daughter surviving her. Her loss will be felt by the whole community, there being few people in this city who have not come under her gentle ministrations or been cheered by a kind word from this kindly, motherly woman.

Mrs. Rankin is survived by a husband, seven sons, Rev. Charles E., of Laurens, S. C., Messrs. Jesse R., of Atlanta, Ga., Lacy E., of Columbia, S. C., G. A., of Macon, Ga., and J. M., J. H., Jr., and Walter H., of this city; one daughter, Miss Margaret, of this city; three sisters, Mrs. H. B. Marley, Mrs. A. A. Crenshaw and Mrs. B. C. Phillips; and one brother, Mr. J. H. Buchanan.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, the services being conducted by the pastor, Dr. McInerney. Interment will follow in Green Hill cemetery.

W. R. RICHEY TALKS OF CERTIFICATE.

the certificate along with his letter of the 12th of January, he most assuredly would have taken up with me immediately the fact that I had misrepresented the matter when I used in my reply to him the words, "containing certificate of yourself and Dr. McIntosh."

"This certificate of January 19, the one exhibited by Governor Blease, and Dr. Knowlton's letter of January 19, are both on the letter heading of the Knowlton Hospital, and as comparison will show, both were written upon the same typewriter. This certificate dated January 19, signed by Drs. Knowlton and McIntosh, is the only one I have ever delivered to Governor Blease signed by these two physicians, and the only certificate ever delivered to me by Dr. Knowlton signed by Dr. McIntosh and Dr. Knowlton.

Any statement of any person to the contrary is ignorantly made, or is an utter misrepresentation of the entire transaction. I am sure that an examination of the records I have quoted will convince any unprejudiced mind that the certificates of Drs. Knowlton and McIntosh, dated January 19, 1912, was filed by me with Governor Blease just as it was delivered to me by Dr. Knowlton.

ANTI-BLEASE MEN PASS RESOLUTIONS

formerly occupied and to re-enthroned righteousness, law and order in the state."

Saying he appreciated the privilege of addressing such a patriotic assemblage the Cheraw man said that when the senatorial party was in the lower part of the state and Governor Blease was getting such cold comfort, he kept saying, "Wait till we reach the Piedmont." When the party got there Mr. Pollock said the revolt against Bleasism was still more pronounced. "At Newberry I saw forty badges of Socialism and nihilism torn from the breasts of men after they had heard Blease's record and tramped in the dust," he stated amid tumultuous cheering. Saying when they penetrated further into the Piedmont section the sentiment continued growing against Bleasism, Mr. Pollock stated that he did not believe the majority for the governor in Anderson county this year would be as much as 250. "And it disgraced itself two years ago by giving him a majority of over 2,000," and Mr. Pollock said he did not believe Anderson would go for him at all. He said his information was that "Bleasism would lose Laurens county," and gave it as his opinion that the sweep against Bleasism would be complete.

"I have had the privilege of telling the people what Bleasism is and what he stands for," he continued, saying that the people could be trusted now, as always, and that their "eyes were being opened." Showing how he had carried the fight straight to the people the Cheraw man told the conference that the masses of the people were stirred and that "the great majority of them will never again record their vote for Bleasism and what he stands for."

Mr. Pollock said that he knew that thousands in South Carolina had hearts who beat in unison with his but he understood the situation and "that they were going to vote for another man for senator. God speed them in their good work for the state." He said he would have the consciousness of duty well done in "playing a man's part in helping redeem South Carolina, and that would be compensation enough."

"Not with the air of a braggart," he continued, "do I tell you that I believe that on August 26 Cole Blease and all he stands for will be swept aside by a majority of 20,000 votes and that the majority may be 20,000."

Taking up the governor's criticism and remarks about the conference, which were delivered at Aiken, Mr. Pollock said that the call for the conference was actuated only by the highest motives and patriotic desire of serving the state and was not an attempt to get any certain candidates out of the race. "You know it, I know it and Cole Blease knows it," he emphasized amid cheers. He said were his friends to tell him that his withdrawal would help to defeat Bleasism "I would get out of the race before sundown."

He said that he believed he still had a purpose and that was to carry the truth to the fourteen counties in the eastern part of the state still to be visited and that, "as soon as they get the light they are going to fall in behind the rest of the counties in South Carolina for law and order, decency and good government."

He praised the conference as patriotic men of patriotic purpose and said he believed the people were like them, willing to lay aside personal preferences for the common good, and said he believed the candidates of the Anti-Bleasism faction in the race for governor were of the same mold. "South Carolinians will do the right thing at the right time and on August 25 you are going to see at least one man in the second race for governor whom the law-abiding people can support," he exclaimed, adding that he did not believe there would be any Bleasite in the second race for governor.

He said of the men of the conference that if there was service to be done "they were men enough to do it regardless of any criticism of a demagogue," but rejoiced that the sentiment against Bleasism is so strong that there was no need for the conference to take any definite steps towards elimination. He urged his hearers to "go back home and keep up the good work and South Carolina will be redeemed." Mr. Pollock's optimistic reports of the stirring of the masses of the people and his statement that they were so aroused against Governor Blease that "they were going to wipe Bleasism and Bleasism from the face of the earth on August 25," drew prolonged cheering. He was given an ovation when he finished.

Amid tumultuous applause the conference by a rising vote adopted a vote of thanks to Mr. Pollock as "the most patriotic man who has done more to defeat Bleasism than any other man." The Aiken delegation were thanked for their work by another rising vote and thanks were extended to Mr. John J. Cain, of the Jefferson Hotel, for the use of the ball room for the conference.
